

“X as Intersection: Writing on Latinx Art”

March 3, 2025

CALL FOR PROPOSALS

(call closes April 4, 2025 )

COLLECTION 6: Diasporic (un)Tethering

Diasporic (un)Tethering curated by Karen Mary Davalos will investigate artists whose work engages connection and/or disconnection from a homeland that is recognized or is not recognized by the nation-state, and the ways artists explore dispersal and relationships to space and people. While Latinx studies favors a view of diaspora that challenges assimilationist paradigms, this collection encourages new questions and approaches to the analysis of diaspora. New approaches may consider the perceived homeland, notions of home, or a third space in works by Margarita Cabrera, Miguel Luciano, Rosemary Meza-DesPlas, Maria Cristina “Tina” Tavera, Daisy Quezada Ureña, and Juana Valdés.

This collection invites proposals in a variety of genres, from art historical approaches to experimental modes of writing, including but not limited to creative non-fiction and auto-historias. Any of these forms can spring from a conversation with the artist (pending their agreement). We envision a broad audience for this platform and the essays. Essays should include citations as appropriate and a short bibliography to guide readers to key sources.

We invite writers to submit a proposal of 250 words or less for a short essay of no more than 1,500 words in length focused on just one of these artists and a limited selection (1-2) of their artworks to allow for depth of consideration and analysis. (We encourage writers to consider the works for which USLAF has already secured permission to reproduce which appear on each artist’s profile on our website. These profiles are hyperlinked above.)

Proposals can be submitted via this Google Form and should identify the artist, the works for consideration, the intended approach, and how the analysis amplifies the concept of diasporic (un)tethering: <https://forms.gle/wtTw5XqjtQyoVyME7>

Proposals are due by April 4, 2025

The editorial process will include group workshopping on Zoom, one round of editor review, and one round of anonymous review from the “X as Intersection” Writing on Latinx Art” editorial team. Writers who are selected will receive an honorarium of $1,000 and are expected to produce a draft 1,500-word essay by June 3, 2025

At the US Latinx Art Forum, we employ the term Latinx to advocate for and make visible the extraordinary creativity of the visual artists who comprise this complex and cross-cutting community. For USLAF, Latinx is about building cross-group solidarity. Rather than subsume other identities and subjectivities, we employ the X to resist silos and boundaries. As a genderqueer neologism, the X in Latinx interrupts binary thinking; it interrupts Anglo-Hispano-Eurocentrism, patriarchy, racism, anti-LGBTQIA2S+ and anti-Black violence; and it interrupts the unequal distribution of power and resources. The X in Latinx enjoins us to queer dominant structures and reminds us that processes of unequal social differentiation cannot be separated from the critical study of geopolitical power, class, race and capitalism, gender and sexuality, patriarchy, and heteronormativity.

In the coming months we will call for submissions for one more collection:

- Sacred Futurities curated by Josh T. Franco will feature Tanya Aguiñiga, Celia Alvarez Muñoz, Beatriz Cortez, Koyoltzintli, rafa esparza, and Michael Menchaca, inviting writers to explore how modernist art and art historical narratives in the twentieth century have often failed to take the sacred--the field of thought and making in which humans forge connection to the mystery of life--into account. In contrast, contemporary artists at the millennium and into the 21st century have embraced and employed the sacred in their work. This collection accounts for some of these artists and practices from across a diverse set of Latinx experiences.

Editorial Board Members:

Kency Cornejo is associate professor in the Department of Chicana/o & Central American Studies at the University of California, Los Angeles (UCLA). Her teaching, research, and publications focus on contemporary art of Central America and its US-based diaspora, art and activism in Latin America, and decolonizing methodologies in art. Some of her publications on US/Central American art can be found in the Journal of Latin American and Latinx Visual Culture; Journal of Commonwealth and Postcolonial Studies; Aztlán: A Journal of Chicano Studies; and Art and Documentation, among others. She is author of the book Visual Disobedience: Art and Decoloniality in Central America, forthcoming with Duke University Press (Oct. 2024), which analyses thirty years of art and decoloniality in the isthmus. Her work has been supported by the Fulbright and Ford foundations, an Andy Warhol Foundation Arts Writers Grant, a National Endowment for the Humanities Faculty Award Grant, and a Mellon Foundation funded Crossing Latinidades Humanities Research Initiative Working Group Grant. She holds a PhD from Duke University, an MA from UT Austin, and BA from UCLA. Kency was born to Salvadoran immigrant parents and raised in Compton, California.

Karen Mary Davalos, professor of Chicano and Latino Studies at the University of Minnesota, Twin Cities, is a leading scholar in Chicana/o/x art history, with four books, one anthology, numerous articles, and curatorial projects. Her recent book, Chicana/o Remix: Art and Errata since the Sixties (NYU Press, 2017) is informed by life history interviews with eighteen artists, a decade of ethnographic research in southern California, and archival research examining fifty years of Chican@/x art in Los Angeles since 1963. In 2016, she has launched with Dr. Constance Cortez (UTRGV), the search tool, Mexican American Art Since 1848, which compiles nearly 20,000 records from existing digital collections at libraries, archives, and museums, and it will add an additional 20,000 records in the near future. She serves on the board of directors of Self Help Graphics & Art, the oldest Chicana/o/x – Latinx arts organization in Southern California. With Tatiana Reinoza, she edited Self Help Graphics at Fifty: a cornerstone of Latinx art and collaborative artmaking (University of California Press, 2023), the first anthology about this important arts organization.

Elizabeth Ferrer is a curator and writer specializing in Latinx art and photography. She recently retired from her position as Chief Curator at BRIC, a Brooklyn, NY arts organization, in order to fully devote herself to projects involving Latinx art. She is author of Latinx Photography in the United States: A Visual History (University of Washington Press, 2021); Lola Alvarez Bravo (Aperture, NY); and of numerous exhibition catalogs published in the US and Mexico. Ferrer has curated exhibitions for such institutions as Aperture, En Foco, the Smithsonian Institution, Notre Dame University, El Museo del Barrio, the Wallach Art Gallery at Columbia University, and the Americas Society in New York, where she was Gallery Director for several years. She curated Louis Carlos Bernal: Monografía, currently on view at the Center for Creative Photography, University of Arizona, on the pioneering Chicano photographer. Her book on Bernal, published by Aperture, accompanies the exhibition. Ferrer, who studied art history at Wellesley College and Columbia University, is from Los Angeles and is based in New York's Hudson Valley.

Tatiana Flores is the Jefferson Scholars Foundation Edgar F. Shannon Professor of Art History at the University of Virginia. A scholar of modern and contemporary Latin America, Caribbean, and Latinx art, she is the author of the award-winning monograph Mexico's Revolutionary Avant-Gardes: From Estridentismo to ¡30-30! (Yale University Press, 2013) and curator of the critically acclaimed exhibition Relational Undercurrents: Contemporary Art of the Caribbean Archipelago (Museum of Latin American Art, Long Beach, CA, distributed by Duke University Press, 2017). Her most recent publication is the co-edited volume The Routledge Companion to Decolonizing Art History (2023). A former president of the Association for the Study of the Arts of the Present (ASAP), Flores is senior editor of ASAP/Journal. She authored the widely cited article "Latinidad Is Cancelled': Confronting an Anti-Black Construct," published in Latin American and Latinx Visual Culture (2021).

Josh T Franco is Head of Collecting at the Smithsonian's Archives of American Art, leading the team that identifies, investigates, and acquires personal papers, institutional records and oral histories that tell the stories of American art. In addition to ensuring their preservation at the Smithsonian, he advises researchers working in the Archives, making them aware of materials relevant to their pursuits. Franco also advises early and mid-career artists on planning for the future of their personal papers. Previously, he served as Latino Collections Specialist at the Archives of American Art (2015 - 2017). Franco received his PhD in the history of art from Binghamton University, SUNY (2016).

Mary M. Thomas (she/her/ella) is the Director of Programs for the US Latinx Art Forum and an independent scholar. Her writing and curatorial projects explore how Latinx and Black artists enact emergent strategies of solidarity and spatial justice through improvisation and other modes of creative practice. Her publications include "Generative Networks and Local Circuits: Self Help Graphics and the Visual Politics of Solidarity," in Self Help Graphics at Fifty: A Cornerstone of Latinx Art and Collaborative Artmaking, "Bricozaje: Between Contested Terrains and Aesthetic Borderlands" in The Archives of American Art Journal, "Reframing Public Art in the Borderlands" in Latin American and Latinx Visual Culture, and "Within/Against: Circuits and Networks of African American Art in California" in The Routledge Companion to African American Art History. She earned her PhD in Visual Studies from UC Santa Cruz.

Adriana Zavala (she/her/ella) is Executive Director of USLAF and professor in the department of History of Art and Architecture at Tufts University. Trained as a modernist with a specialization in Mexican post-revolutionary art, she pivoted toward Latinx art history in the mid-2000s at the request of Latinx students eager to see their communities represented in the art history curriculum at Tufts. She currently researches and writes exclusively on Latinx art including essays on Juana Valdés, Juan Sánchez, Amalia Mesa-Bains, and María Magdalena Campos-Pons, as well as on the state of the field of Latinx art history. In 2015, she collaborated with Rose G. Salseda, Josh T Franco, Sonja Gandert and Sam Romero to establish the US Latinx Art Forum, which emerged from the 2-part panel “Imagining a US Latin@ Art History” at the College Art Association annual conference.
